(C) 1985 BY WOODSTOCK INSTITUTE

The Woodstock Institute, a not-for-profit corporation organized in 1973, is dedicated to the revitalization of urban neighborhoods. The Institute focuses on promoting the reinvestment of private capital and credit in mature neighborhoods by banks, savings and loan associations, insurance companies and pension funds. Throughout its efforts, the Institute endeavors to insure that low- and moderate-income residents benefit from reinvestment initiatives.

Institute staff provides a variety of services to community-based organizations, financial institutions and government agencies, including financial institution regulatory agencies. Services provided include research, policy analysis, consultation and program design and evaluation.

This report would have been impossible without the computer programming elegance of Robert Gray of Gray Data, who provided programming assistance, compiled the Washington, D.C. SMSA data bases and designed the programs for ranking lenders. A major debt of gratitude goes to Ann Urwin, who managed the production of this report with patience, persistence and craft.

Advisory Neighborhood Commission Area Lending Profiles

This volume contains Advisory Neighborhood Commission (ANC) Lending Profiles for District of Columbia neighborhoods from 1980-1982. The data source for these profiles is computerized Home Mortgage Disclosure Act data compiled by the Federal Reserve Board for each Standard Metropolitan Statistical Area (SMSA) in the United States. These data provide information on all housing loans made by regulated lenders (i.e., all commercial banks and savings and loan institutions) at the census tract level.

These lending profiles show, for each year, the housing loans made by each lender within each of the 36 ANC's. The information was provided at the ANC level by aggregating all tracts contained within each ANC's boundaries. Each profile shows the number and dollar volume of loans made by each lender within census tracts contained within the ANC for FHA lending, for conventional single-family (1-4 units) lending, for multifamily lending, and for home improvement loans. The final two columns of each lending profile show the total number and total amount of loans made by the referenced lender within each census tract contained in the particular ANC area. The final row of each ANC lending profile shows the total amount of lending by each loan type in the entire ANC area for each year.

All ANC areas reflect 1980 census tract boundaries. However, 1980 HMDA data were reported using 1970 census tracts. To compensate for this difference, the 1980 ANC map was overlaid on the 1970 census tract map, and each census tract was assigned to the appropriate ANC. Thus, even though the tract numbers shown for each ANC may be different in 1980 and 1981-82, the geographic area represented is the same. Also, in some cases, census tract boundaries straddled ANC's. Those census tracts were assigned to whichever ANC contained the greatest proportion of their population.

Part A of this volume presents the 1980 ANC lending profiles. Part B presents the 1981 ANC lending profiles. Part C presents the 1982 ANC lending profiles. Each single year of information shows the amount of lending by any regulated institution in each of the 36 ANC's. Using information from all three years permits one to trace changes in lending over time.

Guide to Advisory Neighborhood Commission Area Lending Profiles

The first column lists all the banks and savings and loan institutions that made loans in the area.

The second column is the number of FHA and VA loans made by that lender in that ANC.

The third column is the dollar amount of FHA and VA loans (in thousands) made by that lender.

The fourth column is the number of other "conventional" mortgage loans.

The fifth column is the dollar amount (in thousands) of other "conventional" mortgage loans.

The sixth column is the number of loans made for multifamily properties.

The seventh column is the dollar amount (in thousands) made for multifamily properties.

The eighth column is the number of home improvement loans made.

The ninth column is the dollar amount (in thousands) of home improvement loans.

The tenth column is the total number of loans made by that lender in that area (this column is the total of columns 2, 4, 6 and 8).

The eleventh column is the total dollar amount (in thousands) of all loans made by that lender in the area concerned (this column is the total of columns 3, 5, 7 and 9).

ACCURACY OF THE DATA

Accuracy of the Data

Under the Home Mortgage Disclosure Act, each lender is required to submit a report of each census tract to which it made loans, detailing the number, amount and type of lending (e.g., FHA, multifamily) that it did. Each census tract and its associated lending information constitute what is called a "record." Thus, each record contains the lender's name, the census tract number, the number and amount of FHA lending, the number and amount of conventional single-family lending, the number and amount of home improvement lending, and the number and amount of multifamily lending. The number of records a lending institution has on the data base depends on the number of census tracts in which it made loans.

However, the HMDA data base for the District of Columbia contained some inaccurate data values. These inaccuracies occurred in either or both of two places within a record: 1) the lender gave an invalid census tract number, or 2) its lending information for the census tract was missing or invalid. These inaccuracies are not included in these profiles and bad data values were deleted.

Because these profiles focus on the activities of individual institutions, it may be important to know the source of deleted values by each lender. This has been provided in the final tables at the end of each this volume. They show two types of information related to the deletion of inaccurate data values. The first three columns of each table report information concerning the deletion of entire data records, i.e., the census tract and all associated lending information for each lender. Entire records were deleted when the record contained an invalid census tract value. The first column shows the total number of records for each lender which was deleted. The second column shows the original total number of records reported by each lender for the entire Washington, D.C.-Maryland-Virginia SMSA in each year. The third column shows the number of records deleted as a percent of the total number of the lender's records for the entire SMSA. In some cases a large proportion of a lender's records was deleted from the data base. In most cases, the number of records deleted was very small. But this table should be consulted before making any generalizations about the lending activities of a particular lending institution in order to insure that most of the information provided is representative of the institution's activities.

The last three columns of these tables pertain to inaccuracies when the lending information itself, rather than the census tract value, was missing or generally, unbelievable. Lending data were missing if either but not both of the number of loans or loan amount was zero for a particular type of lending -- essentially one piece of information for that type was not there. Lending data was deemed unbelievable if the average amount of lending in a census tract by a lender did not approximate the tolerance limits or standards of conventions as stipulated by the Federal Reserve Board. In the case of inaccurate lending data, bad data values were "flagged" by the Federal Reserve Board. The flags indicated for each loan type (e.g., FHA, conventional single-family, home improvement, etc.) whether the data was valid or not valid. Invalid data was simply set to zero. In these cases, the entire report was not deleted but the inaccurate information pertaining to a particular type of loan was deleted. Column 4 ("Number Bad Loan Flags") shows the total number of loans (not reports) which were flagged as invalid by each lender. Column 5 ("Number All Loan Flags") shows the original aggregate number of loan types reported by lenders on all of their reports. The final column shows the number of bad loan flags as a percent of all of the loan types reported. This shows the number of all lending values as a percent of all the lending information provided on all of the lenders' reports. This percent indicates the overall amount of deleted lending values for each lender. Again, this information should be consulted to insure that the conclusions drawn on each lender are based on most of their lending activities.
